COMMITTEE FROM the Porterville Junior chamber of commerce - headed by Jean Faure - did it again at the Tulare County fair, designing and constructing the Porterville community booth, gathering and displaying farm commodities - and coming up with the first place winner for the third year in a row. Visalia community booth placed second; Dinuba, third; Tulare, fourth and Lindsay fifth. Competition was tough this year, what with the

Jay Cees of Visalia and Dinuba out to "get Porterville," but they didn't quite make the grade. As a result, when the traditional barrel of that farm product known as beer is tapped, Porterville Jay Cees will consume - the other Jay Cees will pay.

DELANO — The United Farm Workers Organizing Committee dedicated a building to the late Roy Reuther, brother of Walter Reuther, of the United Auto Workers union, in ceremonies held Sunday, with union officials from the entire United States standing on the alkali soil that comprise the union's "Forty Acre" headquarters along Garces highway, some two miles west of the Delano city limits.

A service station, a building that houses the union's newspaper, "El Malcriado" (The Ill-Bred), and the building once used as a clinic, (but holding a doctor has been a problem) constitute the property.

The entire proceeding had its typical UFWOC religious background. Priests were draped in burlap robes, emblazoned with the union spread eagle. They were extremely serious in their dedication mass, but there seemed to be an air of defeat in their remarks. One in particular made reference to the loss of support from the local, state and religious leaders.

Communion and rededication to the "Causa" was the prime target of the leaders as they attempted to impress the two-thousand people in the audience. A noted lack of local people was evident. Less than three hundred farm laborers were present.

To those from outside the local area, the meeting was impressive. The audience was comprised of hundreds of young college students, and members of Mexican-American political groups, but the majority of those attending were members of the United Auto Workers.

There was no American flag in evidence, only the banner of bright red and the black spread-eagle was displayed. Attack after attack was made on the "rich" farmers, even though the union has met defeat in most of its attempts to unionize the workers, and vineyardists are still to be brought to the bargaining table.

Idea seemed to be that new money would be needed to complete the UFWOC farm worker organizing program and this will have to be underwritten by the already established groups. This would be the pledge of Walter Reuther. His rich and powerful union is already spending some five thousand dollars a month in support of the UFWOC; gifts, as well, are reported as coming from such people as the Kennedys, Williams, and others, of the New England left wing society.

Approximately a half million dollars a year is being spent by the union to organize the farm laborers in the United States. It is reported however, that workers for UFWOC only receive five dollars a week salary. The union pays all their expenses.

So standing there watching the labor movement gathering, the one question kept coming up after over four years of organizing. "¿adonde estan sus trahabadores, Senor Chavez?" "Where are your workers, Mr. Chavez?"

Duffy Meets With HEW Officials In Washington

HANFORD — Assemblyman Gordon Duffy is in the nation's capitol this week to begin a series of conferences with Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare, Robert Finch, and his staff.

Duffy, who is chairman of the Assembly Health and Welfare committee, will receive top level briefings on President Nixon's newly proposed welfare program by Undersecretary HEW and former colleague, John Veneman.

"It is important that we in the State of California obtain as much information as we possibly can prior to our scheduled interim committee hearings on welfare where most of the legislative changes originate. California laws must be in accord with Federal intent or they will be struck down in court. Also, I believe that we can look forward to dramatic changes in the Social Welfare program in 1970 at both the state and federal level," Duffy stated.

Other subjects slated for discussion with HEW officials are the problems of administering the expensive and cumbersome Medicaid program, and California's newly passed legislation, authored by Duffy, setting up the framework to implement Federal Comprehensive Health Planning requirements.

COUNTY'S TOP ENTERTAINERS WILL BE PICKED IN SERIES OF SHOWS STARTING ON OCTOBER 4

VISALIA — Preparations to choose Tulare County Star 1969 are in full swing according to Sherald Sluka, general chairman of the show.

Tulare County Star 1969 is a county-wide talent competition sponsored by the Tulare County branch of the American Cancer society to select the best entertainment act in this county.

Twenty acts have been picked by open auditions to vie for the title of Tulare County Star 1969. Voting will be by the audiences at the five public performances to be given in five major locations throughout the county on five consecutive Saturday nights beginning October 4.

To enliven the competition among the 20 acts, Jack Depew, awards chairman, is making an urgent appeal to the generosity of the business community to donate suitable gifts to be given as awards. Since the acts vary from one to seven performers and are both male and female, gifts of cash, merchandise certificates and U.S. savings bonds would be most appropriate.

Each day through September 26, businesses responding to this plea will receive publicity, and donors will be listed in the official program for the Tulare County Star 1969 performances.

Anyone wishing to make a contribution is urged to contact: In the Visalia area, Leon Johnson, at 732-1829; in the Tulare area, Gerald Magoon, at 686-0023; in the Porterville area, Clyde Von Essen, at 784-7300; and in the Dinuba-Cutler-Orosi area, Rudy Johnson, at 591-0245; or the American Cancer Society branch office in Visalia at 734-1391.

Some early harvest of almonds has started in the coastal area.

These mornings make you realize that fall really is arriving. You need to fire up the stove, turn down the water, and complete your last outdoor activities. However before putting the tools away there are a couple of things that need doing. One of these is to get your fall bulbs planted. The Dutch have worked hard providing these fine specimens and the least you can do is dig some holes and stuff them full of bulbs.

Fall vegetable gardens are appropriate at this time too. The plants are ready, the seeds are fresh, and steer fertilizer is only seventy nine cents a bag. Everything you need to become a farmer is available on "E" Street north of Olive, including some biased information on how it should be done.

For better camellias next spring there is a product called Beauti-Bloom. This is a granular material that can be used right up to bloom time. You just scatter it around the base of the plant, water it in, and stand back. Your plant will look greener and your flowers prettier than ever before.

Come as you are to "E" Street just north of Olive. Open every day except Sunday.

This group will report on initial plans at next meeting of directors of the Springville chamber, October 7, then give a full report at next general meeting of the Springville "SAIL" group on October 21.

First town meeting to discuss plans for development of Operation SAIL at Springville, held Tuesday night, was called by the Springville chamber of commerce; Dick Coon, chamber president presided; some 50 persons attended to present a number of ideas on how Springville can be made a more attractive community and what projects should be pushed.

Advantages of Springville were listed as: Scenic beauty, good climate, easy access from Southern California, and available area for development of recreational and retirement facilities.

"Eyesores" in the community about which something should be done were listed as the county dump on the main route into Springville (Highway 190); buildings in disrepair; litter along the highway; and rubbish and weeds on vacant lots.

Aimed at community improvement were ideas to continue current efforts for improvement of Highway 190 from the River Island Golf course to the power station above Springville (this Project is now scheduled by the State of California for 1974-75); stricter enforcement of traffic laws; enforcement of anti-litter laws; and the encouraging of a uniform style of development for the business area - possibly along the lines of recreating an atmosphere of the "Old West."

Concern was voiced for lack of doctors in the community; increasing size and activity of the Volunteer Fire department was urged; need for a bank was expressed.

The Springville Area Improvement League will meet regularly on the third Tuesday of each month to further develop plans for general betterment.

From time-to-time conversation is heard concerning lease negotiations with other business firms that would put the Porterville Plaza in business, however, at the present time the only firm commitment, in so far as is publicly known, is the United California Bank development.
